Who you gonna call?

Pete used to live in an old terraced house in Brighton. One morning he was in the kitchen making tea and toast and his girlfriend was having a shower upstairs. Suddenly, Pete heard a fizzing/buzzing noise behind him. He turned round and saw that there was water running down the wall and into the light switch. At that moment the kettle stopped boiling, the toaster stopped working and his girlfriend screamed as the shower went cold! Pete went upstairs and looked at the shower. It was leaking and water was going through he floor and into the kitchen downstairs. When he looked around Pete realized that wasn't the only problem, the bathroom needed a lot of work. Firstly, the shower was leaking but the tap was dripping too. The window was broken and there was a hole in the wall. A lot of the wall and floor tiles were cracked, the bathroom cupboard was falling off the wall and the walls themselves were a really horrible colour! Why hadn't he noticed this before?
